Relevant documentation for using the YouTube API

The following link provides all the information that is needed before you can start to write your own YouTube API. It is required to go through several mandatory steps such as requesting an API key before you can start with writing the API.
https://developers.google.com/youtube/v3/getting-started

The link below provides an overview with many of the possibilities that this API has to offer. It explains what input is required in order to gather data about videos, channels, comments and more.
https://developers.google.com/youtube/v3/docs

The last link is a clear tutorial on how to get started with the API and it explains how to request simple information through the API.
https://youtu.be/th5_9woFJmk